By:

Bill Gilliland, Purchasing Director
Floyd County Board of Commissioners

Run: June 8,13, 20, 27, July 5, 12

Background:

For many years the property located at 405 Watters Street has been jointly operated by Rome Floyd Solid Waste Commission as a recycling center. Since a new recycling center has been opened at another location it is the desire of the Joint Solid Waste Commission for the old recycling buildings and property to be sold.

Interested buyers should be aware that the site is currently listed on the EPD Hazardous Site inventory due to the chemicals used at the old Fox Manufacturing Facility. EPD has suggested moving to a Type 5 Risk Reduction Standard Plan.

It is the goal of the Rome Floyd Solid Waste Commission for the sale of the property to be partially contingent on the future intended use of the property. The decision to sale to a particular individual or firm will be decided by a joint committee of City and County Commissioners and staff. The sale of the property will be based on the following criteria:

1. Cash amount Bid
2. Intended Use of the property:
3. Will there be any new jobs created?
4. Will there be any additional investment to be made to improve the aesthetics and the operational usage of the property?
5. Over what period of time will the investment be made?
6. Will the intended use of the property be in compliance and consistent with current zoning?
Current Zoning is Heavy Industrial (HI) Will a zoning change be requested?
7. How quickly will the property be occupied?
8. The successful firm/individual must be ready to close within 60 days or less and must bear all closing cost expenses. If a survey is necessary it will be the responsibility of the successful bidder.
